

Sermon Review
May 28, 2023
“On The Journey, What’s Next?”
Exodus 14:13-22

All of us have some destinations, some places that we would like to see or even some goals we would like to achieve. The destination is clear, but what can baffle us is the journey. Just what might happen as we travel this life’s journey. After our travels begin, we can begin to wonder what’s next. Our curiosity sometimes can scare us, and we can become paralyzed and never arrive at our destinations, or sometimes our curiosity can energize and inspire us to greater heights than we had initially planned. Either way we can find ourselves on this journey of life and begin to, as we said earlier, ask the question what next. The Hebrews were in celebratory mode after their exodus from Egypt, only to find shortly thereafter that Pharaoh and his army were following them and preparing to bring them back into captivity. To make matters even worse some of the Hebrews began to doubt Moses leadership and complained about the impending danger. If this was not enough on the journey, as the Hebrews marched forward there was nothing in front of them but the Red Sea and for sure it seemed like everything was going wrong and they began asking themselves on this journey, what might happen next. Such is life. This is one of the very reasons we need God’s divine hand to lead and guide us on every journey of our lives. We need to be as Moses was in our confidence that God’s promise to never leave or forsaken us holds true, just as it did for the Hebrews. No, we don’t know what’s next, but we know the one who does. Keep faith in God and humbly seek His intervention prayerfully as we move from one location in life to the next. The Hebrews with God’s intervention crossed the Red Sea successfully completely aware that there will always be a what’s next. What next becomes less significant when our faith, trust, hopes, and dreams are all in the hand of God.

Be Blessed.

Rev. Dr. Keith L. Reynolds, Pastor