

Sermon Review

Date: October 3, 2021

Title: When Satan Seeks You

Scripture: I Peter 5:7-11

As God watches over all of us and guides our lives in doing His divine and holy will, let us all be well assured Satan sits and observes each of us as well, and he too wants us to do his will. Completely two separate agendas and Satan's will has absolutely no room for the divinely enriched objective of lifting the name of Jesus and supporting the loving causes that makes life beneficial and productive for all humanity. While sitting and watching us do God's will, he seeks to kill our Godly spirit, to steal our holy inspiration and to destroy our entire life. Satan does seek each of us out in essence to mess with us and truly to mess us up. When this happens, we worry and become frustrated with life, which too brings on extreme anxiety in our lives. Our scripture from Peter tells us that we should cast all our anxieties on Christ for He is the one who really cares for us. We must keep an attentive and pure mind, because Satan is prowling around looking for someone to devour. If we are not of attentive and sober in our thought, we can so easily become victims to the deceitful methods of the devil. Much like Adam and Eve were deceived by him. We must then resist the devil and stand firm in our faith knowing that other believers throughout the world are experiencing the same as we are. We must humbly know in our hearts that we are trying to live a Godly life which means we have value to this world and the devil does not like that. He wants us to value him, but we must remember there absolutely no value in doing that. When Satan seeks you, my word is that you and I seek Jesus.

Be Blessed.

Rev. Dr. Keith L. Reynolds, Pastor