

Sermon Review
September 26, 2021
“A Constant and Consistent God”
Psalm 102: 25-28

In this ever changing and fast pace world we live in, all of us want a relationship with someone who can be with us through thick and thin. We want someone who we can depend on through the highs and lows of life. In essence, that means someone who is constant and consistent in our relationship with them. We all need a relationship that is offered to us by God Himself who is the same God of yesterday, today and even forevermore. The Psalmist knew of God and proclaims His sameness. David had experience a variety of life experiences and his soul cried out to God through of his experiences, both righteous and sinful. What David needed was the constant and consistent love and mercy of God to see him through life's journey. Jesus says come unto to me all who are weary, wounded and sad. He says, come lay your head upon my breast and learn of me. He constantly and consistently invites us to receive His blessing. We need Him constantly and consistently to be with us through all of our life's experiences. This is the relationship that none of us can be without.

Be Blessed.

Rev. Dr. Keith L. Reynolds, Pastor